Howto Section Answering Language Analysis Questions

Lets say a question asks Analyse how Simpson uses language to describe his physical and emotional state after falling into the crevasse

Step 1 Identify Key Quotations Select powerful phrases that vividly portray his physical and emotional state For example My leg was screaming a searing pain shot up my leg despair clawed at me

Step 2 Analyse the Language Techniques My leg was screaming Personification the leg is given human qualities emphasizing the intensity of the pain a searing pain shot up my leg Imagery the vivid verb searing and the dynamic imagery create a sense of intense sharp pain despair clawed at me Personification again despair is given the active role of attacking him suggesting its overwhelming nature

Step 3 Explain the Effect Explain how these techniques impact the reader For example The personification of his leg screaming emphasizes the unbearable pain he endures drawing the reader into his suffering The vivid imagery of searing pain creates a powerful sensory experience for the reader making the pain feel visceral and real

Howto Section Answering Structure and Organisation Questions

A question might ask How does Simpson structure his account to build suspense and maintain the readers interest

Step 1 Identify Structural Features Look at the use of short sentences to create tension the gradual revelation of information flashbacks or the use of cliffhangers at the end of paragraphs

Step 2 Explain the Effect of Analyze how these features contribute to building suspense For example Simpsons use of short sharp sentences in the description of his fall into the crevasse creates a sense of immediacy and panic The gradual revelation of his injuries builds suspense keeping the reader in a state of anticipation

Visual Imagine a graph showing the increasing tension throughout a section of the text correlating with the use of short sentences and dramatic descriptions

3 Example Answer incorporating multiple question types Lets consider a hypothetical question Analyse how Simpson uses language and structure to portray his feelings of isolation and despair after severing the rope

Example Answer Simpsons account of being alone after severing the rope powerfully conveys his feelings of isolation and despair through a masterful combination of language and structure He uses stark imagery such as the silence was absolute to highlight the emptiness surrounding him The adjective absolute intensifies the feeling of utter loneliness a stark contrast to the previous camaraderie with Yates Further emphasizing this isolation Simpson employs short fragmented sentences mirroring the fractured state of his own emotional and physical being For example Alone Darkness Cold This abrupt staccato style reflects his mental fragmentation and the overwhelming nature of his situation

Structurally the placement of this section after the intense drama of the rope-cutting intensifies the impact of his isolation. The reader is left to share in his desolation, the silence reflecting the crushing weight of his predicament. By skillfully employing language and structure, Simpson evokes a profound sense of despair and loneliness, making the reader deeply empathize with his plight.
